

The chart below is a guideline of inappropriate behaviour and possible sanctions. The list of examples given here is only a guideline. This list is not extensive and some exceptions may occur.

Each incident is evaluated individually and may result in a sanction that falls outside of the normal range listed here. The normal range of sanctions reflects the consequences of a first-time offense. Repeated behaviour or further breaches of the Residence Understandings will result in escalated disciplinary sanctions.

Serious behaviour that may warrant termination may result in a less serious sanction, dependent upon your coming forward to take ownership of and responsibility for your actions, a cooperative manner during the incident follow-up and investigation, and truthfulness throughout the entire process.

Other discretionary conditions may form part of a disciplinary sanction or behavioural contract. See page 30 for more information.
